3 of 3 review helpful Great Exploration of Foundation Work and Process By C Bowen I am a foundation design coordinator for a large Architecture and Industrial Design Program We are always seeking new ways of bringing foundation design education into the studios I was able to review an early copy of this book and felt it deserved a good review on The book goes through a series of abstract iterations in design control Inspiration provides a comprehensive overview of new design methods and techniques that are emerging in the field of architecture. Many of these design methods make use of digital media and computer algorithms. Some already existed for a long time but are reinvented in new ways like design by folding paper materials. These new methodologies have changed the way architects and students design. The book showcases hundreds of examples, models, sketches, and photos. About the Author: Mark Muckenheim is founder and principal of FRAMA Architects BDA in Düsseldorf, Germany, and a visiting professor for architectural design at the Technical University Munich. He has lectured and acted as a guest critic at numerous institutions.
